Apples and Pears in New Mexico

We can grow as many tons of apples to the acre in New Mexico as you can in Missouri or Massachusetts or New York; we can grow as good apples; we can grow more crops in a given number of years than you can in either of these excellent states. We can grow as many tons of the best of pears to the acre in New Mexico as we can apples and we will have as many crops in a given term of years. A forty pound box of our pears is worth as much on the average as a barrel of apples. If the pears are of the best class of late pears as the Danas, Hovey, the Woden Seckil, the winter Nelis the winter Bartlett, or the P. Barry they will be worth twice as much as a barrel of apples. So a ton of the best late pears will be worth some eight times as much as a ton of winter apples. This is why I am advising my friends to plant winter pears instead of winter apples, even in this supremely good winter apple country.

We have many good things in New Mexico. We have soil sunshine, and the cleanest, sweetest air that blows. We have health and we have great opportunities.
But we need more of some important factors to make things go.
We need men with a zeal for or-charding, and with practical knowledge of it. Men with ambition to do something worthy. For such men there is a perpetual and ever-increasing welcome, and, as I believe, the grandest of all orchard opportunities.—Parker Earle in the Wide World.

TUCUMCARI NINETEEN; SANTA ROSA FIVE

Last Sunday the Santa Rosa ball team, strengthened by the Montoya battery, Thomason and Jones, came over with the avowed intention of retrieving their lost reputation. They were, of course beaten badly by Hitson's Tucumcari Athletics.

During the first six innings the locals did some hard and consistent ball playing, piling up twelve runs to their opponent's one, but after that let down and took things easy.
The game resulted in a score of nineteen to five in favor of Tucumcari.

Farr Herring and Vaught made a good battery, Herring pitching an excellent game, considering the fact that he has been on the hospital list for three weeks.

Bess, who has also been a hospital candidate, was again able to play second base, making six put-outs to his credit and also getting a home-run with the bases full in the second inning.

The team is getting in shape for the fair, and with no bad luck, will be able to hold their own or even better against any team in the Territory.

rance on your good horse or cow. 48-tf.
